

Rancho Farm

Making a splash in our glasses this summer is the new elderflower cordial recently added to Rancho's award winning organic lime and mandarin cordial range.

Jose and Jane have lived and worked on their Numulgi property since 2002, along with Emi the dog and Pokey the horse. Jose and Jane are hands on in every stage of their cordial production, from growing and picking, through to making and marketing. Their delicious cordials are sold at the Bangalow Farmers' Markets and online.

Jose left Spain when he "joined the circus to see the world." Now settled happily in the region, he loves his life farming, making quality cordials and selling his produce.

Jane was inspired to grow elderflowers, with their wonderful health benefits, after a successful trip to the Hobart Royal Fine Food Show. Having won three gold medals for Rancho's cordials, she chanced upon another show winning entry, elderflower cordial. "I decided I'd like to compete with them [and was] confident that I could make a good drop."
